Duo video on single monitor – H.239

Duo-Video Feature - You can plug a computer or laptop into the system for presentations with the standard Duo-Video Feature. The dual video feature sends two simultaneous video signals from two different video sources – The camera and your computer. This means the far end sees both the presenter and any computer input at the same time. (This is the H.239 dual stream algorithm). H.239 is an international ITU, (International Telecommunications Union), standard and available on all new videoconferencing systems with most manufacturers.
